Baja California: Ensenada Seafood

Casa Mar No. 2

Av. Macheros Y Blvd. Costero No. 499,
Ensenada

8-25-40

Delicious Mexican seafood at reasonable prices. Try lobster in spanish sauce. $6 pp including wine and tip [PAT-10/77]. No atmosphere but excellent food [JAM-10/77].

Bermuda Continental

Harbourside Restaurant

Hamilton, Bermuda

Probably the only really good non-hotel connected restaurant in Bermuda. For that matter, most of the hotels seem to serve rather bland fare. Rather high priced, as is most everything in Bermuda [AK-4/77].

District of Columbia Chinese

North China

7814-16 Old Georgetown Road,
Bethesda, Maryland

(202) 656-7922

Hours: 11:30am-10pm.

Crowded; atmosphere like Chef Chu's. Moderately expensive Mandarin food of average quality. This sort of cuisine is just starting to catch on in the DC area, so there isn't much competition yet [RHT-76].

French

Jockey Club

2100 Mass. Avenue, N.W.,
Washington, D.C.

(202) 659-8000

Best French restaurant in D.C. area [LES-61:72].

Hawaii: Honolulu Japanese

Kobe Steak House

1841 Ala Moana Blvd, Honolulu

(808) 941-1551

Carbon copy of Benihana except better food. Great show. $9 pp. [DBH-77]. Better than Benihana. Their Guri-Guri Ice Cream is good and different [GFF-77].

Hawaii: Kauai Mexican

La Luna

3 miles East of Lihue on the road,

Kapaia

(808) 245-9173

Hours: open for dinner only.

Excellent, authentic food; two people were hard pressed to finish a single side order of Guacamole & Chips (with a dinner). No beer permit, but will gladly refrigerate any that you bring. Enchiladas and burritos both delightful. $4 pp.!! [PAM-3/76]. Seems like it is always closed [DBH-76].

Illinois: Champaign-Urbana Italian

Papa Del's

601 Wright Street, Champaign

(217) 359-0074

Hours: Mon-Sat 11am-12:30am, Sun 3pm-12:30am. No cards.

Best Pizza (Chicago style) in U.S. Ask for Sicilian. Other dishes available, but not worth it. Relatively expensive [RPG-76].

Korean

Manna Restaurant

315 N. Fremont Street, Champaign

(217) 352-2110

Hours: Mon-Fri 11am-8pm except Tue 11am-2:30pm, Sun 4pm-8pm.

Good and astoundingly cheap! [JAM-11/75]. Banquet mode a must [RPG-76].

Illinois: Chicago
Greek

The Parthenon

314 S. Halsted, Chicago
(312) 726-2407

Best Greek food in country. Free Ouzo while waiting for a table. Live Greek music. (Place next door is great too.) [SM-75].

Massachusetts: Boston
American

Durgin Park

30 N. Market St., Boston
(617) 227-2038

Hours: 11am- , closed Sun.

Used to be good. Now sort of a tourist rip-off. Ridiculously long lines [AK-76]. Waited for an hour and a half, then left [WLS-75]. I liked it [DEA-76]. Overrated [RAK-76]. Best American restaurant in Boston [REG-76]. a landmark restaurant and one of the most famous in Boston. This old and ugly warehouse setting is noted for its New England style cooking (boiled beef, roast ribs of beef) but it also has such things as roast duck (not highly recommended). The waitresses are "famous" for their surliness, particularly if you forget to tip. All meals are served with cornbread and are in enormous portions. The roast beef is perhaps their most famous dish (though the management disclaims all responsibility for items ordered well-done). Seating is shared at long, crowded but friendly tables. Figure on $5 pp. Go through the bar — its separate waiting line is much shorter. [EVA-77].

F & T Restaurant (Deli)

304 Main Street, Cambridge
Food is good but not great; very inexpensive. Beer is $.40 a draft, chili is excellent ($.40) and the beer flows, even at breakfast where they feature steak and eggs. Do not go to the diner next door. Lunches start at $1.40 [EVA-77].

Hilltop Steak House

Route 1, Saugus

Hours: 11am-11pm. No checks or cards.

Top quality and quantity steaks; excessively long line; moderate prices [AK-76]. Arrive before 3pm or after 9pm to avoid long wait. Best steak and price in Boston area [ES-4/77]. I didn't like the police state atmosphere of the place [MRC-77].

Ken's

Boylston Street near Copley Square,
Boston

The alternative eating place at 3am. Pretty good delicatessen and general American fast food [CDR-78].

The Wine Cask

in The Garage at Harvard Square,
Cambridge

A very elegant but moderately priced restaurant on the mezzanine, offering a huge selection of wines by the glass. Dinner starts at $6.50. Between 4pm-11:30pm you can also sample wines alone or with cheese [EVA-77].

Warren Tavern

2 Pleasant Street, Charlestown
(617) 241-8500

Hours: unknown. No cards. Coat and tie required, reservations advised.

If you visit the Bunker Hill monument in Charlestown, consider going here. A local seafood and "Yankee" dining place that also features fresh, unpretentious entrees such as spinach and mushroom salads. The kitchen is very tiny so the fish is cooked when you order, not before. Also good as lunch place from MIT since it's about a mile away from the Hotel Sonesta at the edge of Charlestown. Desserts are magnificent, even their Indian Pudding. The restaurant itself is in a reconstructed 200 year old historic site. Try the duck [EVA-77].

ChineseColleen's Chinese Cuisine

792-794 Main Street, Cambridge

(617) 661-1660

Not great but good enough for lunch with daily specials around $2.50 pp. including soup. They ask for reservations in the evening. Food is Mandarin and Szechuan. They advertise their chicken dishes [EVA-77]. Improved in quality. Hot and sour wonton soup is excellent [CDR-78]. Expanded dining area, no reservations needed now. Hot and sour Wonton soup is not the same as dumpling hot and sour soup on wontons. Virtually everything we've had has been good [GLS-78].

House of Toy

8 Hudson St., Boston

(617) 426-2128

My favorite Chinese restaurant in Boston area, best sweet and sour in Boston area [ES-5/77]. Favorites are ginger and fish meat. Best vermicelli (bean thread) dishes in Boston [GLS-78].

Hunan

700 Mass. Ave., Cambridge

(617) 876-7000

Hours: unknown. Major cards accepted.

Considered good, but not quite in same league as best West Coast [AK-76]. Excellent service and good food [MRC-77]. Good food. Comparable to most good peninsula restaurants of its kind [JP-78]. Gone downhill [RG-78]. Royal Mandarin down the street is better [CDR-78]. I have heard rumors of cockroaches [GLS-78]. Recent banquet for 30 was a winner; dishes were fresh and tasty [JLW-78].

Joyce Chen Small Eating Place

302 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston

Hours: closed Tue. No cards.

Jim Hung is the owner and chef of this Szechuanese style Chinese restaurant. In Cambridge, there has been a growth in Chinese regional cooking. Thus this place has very hot food which the chef will be glad to help you choose. Lots of pancake (moo-shi) dishes. Roughly $3 pp. [EVA-77]. Gone downhill. Had bones in my Moo Shu chicken last time [CDR-78].

Moon Villa

23 Edinboro Street, Boston

(617) 423-2061

Hours: 9am-4am. No credit cards

Authentic Hong Kong Cantonese [RWG-75]. Very good; the canonical MIT hackers' 3am dinner spot. The wonton soup with or without noodles is not to be missed (price depends on the phase of the moon) [MRC-77]. Outstanding place. Every dish was good. Try crabmeat in milk sauce and beef stomach [BPM-77]. The place for 3am hunger pains [GFF-77]. Still best late night place in Boston [RPG-77]. Gone downhill [MRC-78].

Peking Garden

Waltham Street, Lexington

My favorite for weekend pastries.

Usually no wait [ES-5/77].

Royal Mandarin

546 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge

(617) 547-2299

Hours: 11:30am-3pm 5-10:30pm, till 11pm Fr.-Sat., closed Mon. AX, MC, DC, no checks.

MIT hackers agree this is the best Chinese in Boston area. Peking Duck ($14) is superb and does not have to be ordered in advance. Half Duck available ($7.50). Banquets are incredible [RCM-76]. Former MIT hacker agrees, fine all around. Ask for hot [RPG-76]. Good food and close to MIT. The highlight is Peking duck which doesn't have to be ordered a day in advance [BPM-77]. Service sometimes poor [ES-4/77]. Not cost effective [GLS-78].

Shanghai

21 Hudson St., Boston
(617) 482-4797

This is where MIT hackers often go for pastries, probably because the pastries here are winners; so is the rest of the menu! Not up to west coast standards [MRC-77]. Must arrive before 11:45 to avoid long wait for weekend pastries [ES-4/77]. Changed ownership March 1, 1978. Prices higher now and food not as good [GLS-78].

Shanghai Village

434 Mass Ave., Arlington
(617) 646-6897

Food quite good [JLW-77] Food pretty good [GLS-78]. Very fine family restaurant. Not the place to go for fancy dishes. The general quality of food is very high and uniform [GJS-78].

Su-Shiang

158 Prospect Street, Cambridge
Szechuan. Luncheon and dinner menu constantly changes. Weakest dishes are the ginger/brown sauce ones from North China. Very good dishes include the sweet and sour fish and any of their duck. Also recommended is their port with scallions as of a few months ago. Expect to pay $3-5 pp. Bring your own liquor [EVA-77].

Yee Hong Guey

34 Oxford Street, Boston
(617) 426-6738

Old standby Cantonese for MIT crowd. Generally competent; low prices [AK-76]. Very americanized, but lo mein etc. very good [RWG-76]. Get the wonton soup [ES-1/77].

ContinentalFerdinand's

121 Mt. Auburn St., Cambridge
(617) 491-4915

Hours: Mon-Sat lunch: 11:30-2:30, dinner: 5pm-10pm, Fri-Sat till 11pm,
Sun noon-10pm. AX, VS, CB, MC.
Reasonably priced expensive food.
Excellent appetizers. Veal Oscar recommended. The most pleasant and efficient service of any restaurant in Cambridge. Be sure to visit Ha'penny Pub downstairs [WLS-75]. Ferdinand's is overpriced, as is anything in Harvard Square, but Ha'penny is a good bar [DCL-76]. Excellent for lunch [JPE-8/77]. Dinners with wine average $12 per person. Cuisine is what is called Continental, French dishes primarily. A favorite in the 1st year has been their Veal Oscar (lightly bread-crumbed veal, very tender, with white asparagus, crabmeat and gruyere cheese with some wine sauce. Lunches feature seafood crepes [EVA-77].

Lock-Ober Cafe

3 Winter Place, Boston
(617) 542-1340

Hours: 11am-10pm, closed Sun. AX,
VS, CB, MC, DC. Reservations, coat and tie required.

You can walk through the Back Bay to this restaurant from the Boston Common and then to the restaurant which is in downtown Boston. It is known as a very illustrious restaurant but the food doesn't always match the reputation. The main dining room may still be closed to women, but the upstairs dining room is more pleasant anyway. Figure on over $25 per person for dinner, though some meals are around $10 per entree. Specialties include lobster Savannah and filet mignon Mirabeau. Excellent wine list [EVA-77].

Ritz-Carlton

15 Arlington Street, Boston
(617) 536-5700

By subway, use the Arlington Street exit after Park Street change. The restaurant is in the hotel of the same name. 3 dining rooms with 3 price ranges: The Main room is open for lunch noon-2:30, and dinner 6-9pm, staying open longer on Fri & Sat evenings. The French Room is open 2:30-5 and 9-12:30. The Cafe is open from 7am-9pm. The cafe is the least expensive with dinners around $5-$15 per person. Food in the main dining room starts at over $15 and can go to $35 per person. All dishes are freshly prepared it seems from tasting the sauces that go with them. Emphasis is on extremely gracious, personalized service. The Ritz is elegance which is unsurpassed and is worth a one-time venture [EVA-77].

Czechoslovakian

Savarin

156 Prospect (South Station),
Cambridge

(617) 876-9475

Czechoslovakian food, good, simple, reasonably priced, cozy atmosphere [MRC-77].

French

Chez Jean

1 Sheperd Street, Cambridge
(617) 354-8980

Hours: closed Mon. Major cards OK. (At the corner of Mass Ave and Sheperd Street. 5 minutes north of Harvard Square or take the Mass Ave bus which stops at the corner.) Very French, has lots of fresh sweetbreads and innards. Moderate prices, entrees start at around $4 and you can go away having spent about $20 for two people if you select well. Their steak with bernaise sauce is about $8 and one of the most expensive entrees. It is a very relaxed place to dine for a long, long time [EVA-77].

Le Bocage

147 Huron Avenue, Cambridge
(617) 864-6670

Hours: 6pm-10pm, closed Sun. 5 minutes by taxi from Harvard Square. Cuisine is French provincial with a lot of Calvados. There is a liquor store at the corner from which you may bring your own wine. No reservations are needed but you should be there near opening time or you will have to wait. Each evening the menu varies to include only about three or four dishes that are very simple, fragrant and delicious. Consider their fresh salmon if it is available. Dinner is about $15 per person. [EVA-77]. Still good [CDR-78].

Maison Robert

45 School Street, Boston
(617) 227-3370

Hours: unknown. All major cards. Lunches range around $10 with French bread flown in daily from Paris. Dinner is nearer to $15 and up per person, if you get the house wine. The restaurant also has an outdoor cafe, slightly below street level that is also a very elegant place to have a drink or dessert after walking around Boston. Maison Robert is housed in the Old Boston City Hall, has two dining rooms, one formerly the Boston jail. Coat and tie required in the restaurant. The food is excellent. Service is attractive, portions generous. The sidewalk cafe is called Ben's Cafe and is nice for outdoor evening dining [EVA-77].

Peasant Stock

421 Washington Street, Somerville
(617) 491-1013

Limited selection but very good, usually provincial French cooking providing unusual and tasty menus. As of a year ago they received a liquor license so you no longer bring your own. Large servings are under $10 per person. [EVA-77].

German

Jacob Wirth Co.

31 Stuart (Kneeland Street), Boston
(617) 338-8586

Good German in beer hall atmosphere [AK-76]. Saurbraten loses—the meat is not marinated; just pot roast in sour gravy [RCM-75]. Good [MRC-77].

GreekAthenian Taverna

569 Mass. Ave., Cambridge

(617) 354-9700

Best Greek in town. Egg Lemon Soup a specialty. Excellent service, comfortable atmosphere, moderate prices [AK-76, GFF-77].

Averof Greek Restaurant

1972 Massachusetts Avenue,
Cambridge

This restaurant has most of its reputation from the belly dancing it features as well as other classical oriental dancing. It also has excellent Greek food, much better than most Greek restaurants in this area, especially as far as the squid goes (this is a place to try fried squid and learn how actually good they taste, not like rubber bands). Their Spinach pie is also quite a cut above other Greek restaurants. This is over $3 when served as dinner, can be less if you order it as an appetizer. The fried squid was $4.25 at last visit and has a delicate taste near to lobster. Shish Kabab Averof was $5.25. The bread is ordinary, the desserts unexceptional [EVA-77].

Zorba's Shish-Ke-Bab House

485 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge
(617) 492-6456

An extremely cheap but good place to have lunch of shish-ke-bab, pilaf, or salads [EVA-77].

HungarianCafe Budapest

near Copley Square, Boston

Hours: unknown. Major cards OK.

Superb Hungarian cuisine. Require jacket. Cherrystone soup not to be missed. Expensive.

InternationalQuincy Market

near the Haymarket, Boston

Just opened in September, exotic foods housed in a 200 year old former meat-house. Since it's renovation by the same people who did Maison Robert, the Quincy Market has become a mecca for suburban visitors as well as downtown workers. You can spend $5 and eat 5 different samples of international cuisine (Greek, Chinese, French, Korean, etc.) [EVA-77].

ItalianIda's

3 Mechanic St., Boston

(617) 523-8961

Excellent. Try Brasciolettini. Tell them you are a friend of Kotok to get a seat. Alas only 6 tables [AK-76]. Poor service, full of cigar smoke, excellent food [ES-8/76].

La Groceria

853 Main Street, Cambridge

Hours: 9am-9pm.

Combination restaurant/subshop with fine Italian food on second (upper) floor. Chicken marsala is very good [EVA-77]. Gone downhill [CDR-78].

Mamma Catina

326 Hanover, Boston

(617) 523-0225

North end Italian home cooking. Good pasta con vongole served as is or with crab [DCL-76:77].

Villa Capri

212 Hampshire (Inman Square),
Cambridge

(617) 876-9330

Pretty good [DDG-71]. Bleah [RWG-73].

MexicanLatin-O

19 Brookline Street, Cambridge
(617) 876-9074

A real favorite in the last few months. Expensive but wonderful Mexican food (although there's not one Mexican in the place). It is not very hot which some people find lacking but the food is very tasteful, the place is highly romantic and candlelit. Figure on $12pp and up depending on how you order the wine. Desserts include 3 kinds of cheesecake, including a very delicious chocolate one; 2 kinds of after-dinner brandied coffees. The Tijuana Lounge is great for just drinks serving hot appetizers. Imported beers and wines. A new feature is Flamenco dancing offered Thursday at 9:30pm and Friday at 10:30pm. No cover charge [EVA-77].

Middle EastMiddle East Restarant

4 Brookline, Cambridge
(617) 354-8238

The service is a bit slow, but the wait is worth it in excellent food [MRC-77].

SeafoodNo-Name Restaurant

15.5 Fish Pier, Boston
(617) 338-7539

Best around, there is a wait, bring your own beer or wine and they'll give you glasses. Great clam chowder [DEW-77].

Legal Seafood

237 Hampshire (Inman Square),
Cambridge
(617) 547-1410

Great food. Eat at non-peak hours if you don't want a long wait [MJC-74, DON-76]. Low priced, but extremely good seafood in a completely nondescript setting [WLS-75]. All the fish is fresh [RCM-76]. If you go anytime near the dinner "hour", that's how long you'll have to wait. The ice tea is pretty awful, but the fish is excellent

[BPM-77]. Excellent fish chowder

[TOB-77]. Excellent food, very long wait

[ME-77]. The best seafood restaurant I have found in Boston. Have a beer upstairs while waiting for a table

[DCO-78]. Faster service available for fried food [CDR-78].

Union Oyster House

41 Union Street, Boston
(617) 227-2750

The seafood selection is complete; you may wish to sit at the oyster bar on the first floor and watch the waiters crack fresh oysters, cherrystones and quahog clams on ice, while you savor these fresh seafood with you Bass ale which is on tap. Dinners can be $7 and up if you are choosing lobster dishes, other fish dishes are nearer to $4. Like other "Yankee" style restaurants this has traditional New England desserts such as Indian pudding. If you go by subway, take the Government Center exit. Both Durgin Park and Union Oyster House are near the Freedom Trail [EVA-77].

SpanishThe Iruña Spanish Restaurant

56 Boylston Street, Cambridge
(617) 868-5633

Hours: 12-2pm, 6pm-9pm, Fri-Sat till 10pm.

Very unpretentious but nice enough dining. There are a few tables in the back for outside dining. Their steak with artichoke hearts and a pitcher of Sangria make a wonderful simple meal at under $10 per person. Their tripe is not so good and their paella is a little weak on the fish ingredients for a Spanish restaurant [EVA-77].

Montana: St. Mary
American

Johnny's Dinner House

U.S. 89, North of Going to the Sun
Road, St. Mary, Montana
(406) 277-9954

Hours: 4pm-11pm, closed Wed.

Best American food I've ever had [ES-8/76].

St. Mary Lodge

St. Mary Village, (East of Glacier Park)
(406) 732-4431

Hours: 7am-10pm. AX, VS, DC, MC.

Delicious cooking. I had trout — excellent [LES-8/77].

Nevada: Gardnerville American

Sharkeys

Gardnerville (South of Carson City)

A casino. Excellent prime ribs according to the waitress at the Basque Hotel. Once a year, in January, supper is free for everyone who shows up, and everyone does show up — in 1977 they served suckling pig, in 1978
roast goat [DCO-78].

Basque

The Basque Hotel

Gardnerville (South of Carson City)
Residential Basque hotel. $6.50 gets you wine, salad, two or three main courses, ice cream and coffee. On one memorable occasion, the three courses were fried chicken, roast lamb and immense steaks. Quality of cooking variable, quantity not [DCO-78]. Best of the Basques. Across the street from Sharkey's Nugget. Can be reached in 25 minutes from South Shore Tahoe if you take the Kingsbury Grade [RAK-78].

New Hampshire
American

Appalachian Mountain Club

State route 16, Pinkham Notch
(603) 466-2727

Hours: breakfast 7 am, dinner 5 or 6pm.

For hikers. All you can eat. The best food in New England, but you must be there at the designated time [ES-5/77].
Why eat in a restaurant when surrounded by a thousand square miles of wilderness? A sandwich in Tuckerman's Ravine is better than any meal at the AMC lodge [DCO-77].

Hi There Restaurant

State route 25, Moultonboro
(603) 476-8867

Favorite of MIT Outing Club when returning from Pinkham Notch region.
Fried bread irresistible [ES-5/77].

(603) 745-2711

Excellent Polish food. Favorite of MIT
Outing Club when returning from Franconia Notch region [ES-5/77].

Sea Food

Marie's

State route 25, Center Harbor
(603) 253-7533

Open till midnite. All the fish you can eat for $2 every Friday [ES-5/77].

New Jersey: Hoboken
Seafood

Clam Broth House

38 Newark, Hoboken
(201) 659-2448

Famous world-wide for seafood, especially steamed clams. Dinner in the dining room is much more expensive than at the stand-up bar. They have hot brine on tap. For many years the bar was verboten to women, but like everyplace else it succumbed in the 60's. Good on the atmosphere and food (I had lobster and steamed clams) and should be visited at least once [MRC-77].

(505) 898-6235

Hours: Tue-Sat 6-10pm, Sun noon-10pm.

Attractive and historic adobe restaurant features fine New Mexican food and a selection of steak and seafood [KRK-77].

New York: New York

Chinese

Hop Kee

21 Mott St., New York
(212) 964-8365 or 962-8149
Cantonese; they are famous for their clam dishes and the fact that they are open all night. Reasonable prices [MRC-77].

Temple Garden

16 Pell, (Chinatown) New York
(212) 233-5544
The New York Times rated them with four stars, probably because they are excellent. Mostly Shanghai. The pastries are much better than Boston; but not as good a selection [MRC-77].

Delicatessen

Carnegie Delicatessen

7th near 54th street, New York
Here the corned beef is the thing. Cheaper than the Stage Deli down the street, but still high [RAK-1/78].

German

Bavarian Inn

232 86th Street between 2nd and 3rd Ave., New York
(212) 650-1056

Hours: closes around 1am.

Very good German food and beer. True German atmosphere; the waitors and waitresses are German and wear old-fashioned Bavarian costume; they also have (or had) a guy playing a zither there most nights in addition to the background beer hall music. This is a very German part of NYC (and a good area for singles too!) so standards are quite high [MRC-77].

Greek

Z Restaurant

117 E. 15th Street, New York
(212) GR 3-3900
I've eaten here 20 times over four years. Best Greek food I've ever had. Cheap. All dishes superb [MLM-76].

Jewish

Shmulka Bernstein's

Delancey and Essex Sts., New York
If you like a real Jewish delicatessen, this is the place to go. The best pastrami sandwiches anywhere [ARK-77]. The pastrami really is that good. They also serve Chinese-style food [ND-75].

Pennsylvania: Pittsburgh

For additional information, see the Guide to Pittsburgh Restaurants, available at most bookstores in that area, or the Guide to Pittsburgh produced by Pittsburgh magazine.

American

Hyeholde

190 Hyeholde Dr., Coraopolis (on the way to the airport)
(412) 264-3116

A grand home-style spot in the rural tradition. There is a standard fixed price for the meal (high), and you get what they are cooking. The atmosphere is the best around, from the many intimate little dining rooms to the classical music played in the background. The food is better than the atmosphere. They don't take credit cards, so bring money [ER-77].

Johnny Garneau's Golden Spike Restaurant

212 6th St, Pittsburgh
(412) 391-0458

Hours: unknown. All major cards.

The best salad bar in the city. There's also a Johnny Garneau's in Monroeville, but don't go to it. The downtown Garneau's also has the best desserts for many a mile, and an all-you-can-eat buffet featuring things like steamship round of beef and baked ham [ER-77].

Red Bull Inn

401 Shady Avenue at Walnut,
Shadyside
(412) 361-2340

A steak and salad-bar place. Popular, although it used to be more popular when their prices weren't so high [BR-77].

The Colony

Greentree Road & Cochran, Scott
Township
(412) 281-5140

An expensive red-white-and-blue American restaurant serving meat, potatoes, fresh fruit, and desserts. There are very few items on the menu, but they are all fantastic. A friend of ours has a father who will eat nothing but steak or lobster, and every time he comes to town they trundle off to the Colony. He pays [ER-77].

The Common Plea

308 Ross St. near the courthouse and jail, Pittsburgh
(412) 281-5140

A great but popular spot for lunch, and to a lesser extent, for dinner. They don't take reservations, so get there before 5 if you want to have dinner. If you want lunch there, either come after 1pm or be prepared to wait a long time. They let you wait at the bar [ER-77].

The Fallen Angel

546 Sixth, Pittsburgh
(412) 263-2785

A good place to go if the people taking you to dinner are both generous and rich. You will be well fed and your benefactors will certainly feel that they have had their money's worth. They are on the second floor of their building, up a long narrow staircase (you will be sure that you are in the wrong place as you climb it). There is no menu; the waiter will tell you about the food in a fake French accent. There is a fixed price for dinners, and they will take some but not all credit cards [BR-77].

The Top Shelf

606 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh
(412) 566-2900

A nice place to go after a concert at Heinz Hall; it's elegant but informal [BR-77].

Cafes

Cafe Cappucino

downtown in The Bank, Pittsburgh
(412) 261-1008

After the symphony, or after a hard day downtown, try stopping at the Cafe Cappucino in The Bank (which see). Don't go there if you are in a hurry, but do go there for fine coffee, desserts, cheeses, fondue, and chocolates [ER-77].

Chinese

Anna Kao's

1036 Freeport Road, Fox Chapel
(412) 782-3010

If you want what has for years been reputed to be the best Chinese restaurant in town, go to Anna Kao's on Freeport Road in Fox Chapel. In this case however, the best isn't very good [ER-77].

Orient Express

Shadyside

Hours: noon-3pm 5pm-10pm Tue-Thu, till 11 Fri & Sat, 4-9 Sun, closed
Mon.

Heartily recommend it to anyone who enjoys Chinese cooking, particularly Szechwan dishes. Apparently there are three partners, including a chef formerly at Anna Kao's and the Peking Restaurant in Monroeville. Another partner is a friend of Rick Woudenberg and myself (don't let that scare you off!) with whom we have cooked. Although Italian by background, she loves Chinese cooking. Tell her you are in Computer Science at CMU and you are sure to get started on a long discussion of who knows what [RIC-4/78].

Peking Royal Kitchen

2018 Murray avenue in Squirrel Hill, Pittsburgh
(412) 421-1920
A nice northern-style Chinese restaurant [ER-77].

The Peking Restaurant

behind the Mall, Monroeville
A good place, although a bit uneven, and the prices are steep [BR-77].

New China Tea Room

810 Penn Avenue, Wilkinsburg
(412) 241-4426
Hours: Mon-Sat noon-midnight, Sun noon-11 pm.
An American-style Cantonese restaurant with very high-quality but bland food and very generous portions. It's a very plain, brightly-lit spot in a poorer neighborhood, and reasonably cheap [ER-77].

Delicatessens

The Gazebo

5440 Walnut Street in Shadyside, Pittsburgh
(412) 682-2924
Combination restaurant, delicatessen, and bakery that is nearly always crowded, and justifiably so. Even if they were empty, the service would probably still be slow; when they are crowded, you often feel as though the waitress forgot about your table. They sell real blintzes and wonderful cookies; the specialties of the house are cheesecake and German chocolate cake. They are a poor excuse for a deli by New York standards, and they are also badly overpriced (remember the fashionable Walnut Street location), but they are almost all that we have [BR-77].

Italian

Del's Bar and Restaurant

4428 Liberty just north of the Bloomfield Bridge, Bloomfield
(412) 683-1448
An economical Italian restaurant, of the brightly-lit linoleum-floor variety [ER-77].

Erculiani's

600 Tunnell Hill, Gallitzin (near Altoona)
(814) 886-9941
Offers huge high-quality multi-course meals. The antipasto is so good that you are full before the main course arrives. Reservations required [BR-77].

One Grandview

1 Grandview, on Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh
The most expensive restaurant in the city. Their food is spectacular, but the service reputedly irregular. They bill themselves as the best Northern Italian restaurant in the U.S. We will believe that they are the best Northern Italian restaurant in Pittsburgh [ER-77].

Pleasure Bar Restaurant

4729 Liberty Avenue, Bloomfield
(412) 682-9603
A plain Italian restaurant. Certain members of our department consider it the worst restaurant that they have ever had the misfortune of going to, while others find it quite reasonable. The conclusion can only be that the place is variable [BR-77].

Poli's

2607 Murray Avenue near the parkway, Squirrel Hill
(412) 521-6400
Hours: Tue-Sat 11:30am-11pm, Sun 1:00pm-1pm, closed Mon.
Expensive but has good seafood. Not great, just good [BR-77].

Sodini's

5608 Wilkins near Negley, Pittsburgh
(412) 521-0581

Try their minestrone, fried green squash, omelettes, and oysters. Their oysters aren't memorable, but I found a pearl in an oyster here once [ER-77].

Mexican

Taco Hut

3805 Forbes (next to Kings Court Theater) in Oakland, Pittsburgh
(412) 682-9927
Dynamite bean burrito and other Mexican bean delicacies for less than a dollar. Otherwise, it's rather plastic [JIB-77].

Japanese

The Samurai Japanese Steak House

2100 Greentree Road, Greentree (on the way to the airport)
(412) 276-2100
Hours: unknown. All major cards.
Has good food and moderate prices. Part of the fun of eating there is watching the food being prepared at your table. If you've been to Japanese steak places before, you may find this one hackneyed, but everybody should try a place like this at least once [BR-77].

Middle Eastern

Samreny's Restaurant

4808 Baum Boulevard, Pittsburgh
(412) 682-1212
Hours: Tue-Sat 11:30am-1am, Sun 11:30am-10pm, closed Mon.
Pittsburgh has many fine Middle-Eastern restaurants, the most expensive of which is Samreny's [BR-77].

Ali Baba's

404 S. Craig in Oakland, Pittsburgh
(412) 682-2829
One of the cheapest and best places around, definitely a Best Buy [ER-77].

Taverns

Mad Anthony's Bier Stube und Restaurant

13 & Merchant, Ambridge (20 miles away)
(412) 266-9662
Just a few blocks from Old Economy Village, is a German-style restaurant and beer hall with Lowenbrau on tap and all manner of German food. They give you all the peanuts you can eat, salted in the shell, and encourage you to throw the peanut shells on the floor when you are done [BR-77].

Mitchell's Pub

100 McNeilly Rd., in Oakland, Pittsburgh
(412) 884-3335
A family bar that also sells good food at very low prices, and the service is fast. Prime rib for $5.00 and a shrimp plate for $2.50. Beer is 35 cents. What more could you want? [BR-77].

Kelly's bar

6012 Penn Circle near Highland, Pittsburgh
(412) 361-9625
Has a clientele primarily composed of old Irishmen, with cheap and delicious sandwiches [BR-77].

Oakland Original Hot Dog Store

3901 Forbes, in Oakland, Pittsburgh
(412) 621-7388
My favorite dive. A good place to go for a pitcher of beer and some pinball, and there's lots of good food. In particular, their french fries are the best around. All of their hot food is cooked to order. Their pizza, made in a microwave oven with lots of tomato sauce, is an experience. The atmosphere is easily the sleaziest available in Oakland. They also have good cheap carryout beer [BR-77].

Primanti Brothers

46 18th Street in the Strip District,
Pittsburgh

(412) 263-2142

Hours: midnight to 2pm.

The last and now best of a dying breed of restaurant. Primanti's opens for business at midnight and closes at 2pm the next day; they are geared to the people who work in the Strip. The portions are huge and the place is immaculate [ER-77].

The Craig Street Inn and Gino & Pete's Pizza Shop

near CMU, Oakland

Worth mentioning as a pair.

Gino&Pete's is the closest good pizzeria to school and they are next door to the Craig Street Inn. The Craig Street people encourage you to buy a pizza next door, then take it in to their place and eat it with a pitcher of beer. Antonino's, across the street, used to be a good place to buy pizza until they got delusions of grandeur and started offering entertainment and putting rugs on the floor. On the other hand, if you want to go to Antonino's for the entertainment rather than for the food, you will probably like it [BR-77].

The Squirrel Hill Cafe

on Forbes at Murray, Oakland

Popular with CMU undergraduate students because they hardly ever card you, and the atmosphere is dark and warm. On the other hand, the service is awful [BR-77].

Walsh's Tavern

6018 Broad Street Mall, East Liberty
(412) 361-9654

Has live Bluegrass music on Saturday night; the music starts around 9pm but come early to get a seat [ER-77].

Vegetarian

Intermission

5220 Walnut St. (in The Theater),
Shadyside

(412) 681-3353

Superb quiche (call ahead to check that they don't just have Lorraine) for $2.20 in quite the most tasteful surroundings of the concrete and steel paradise which is fashionable Walnut Street. Cheesecake best in town, but a trifle chere at $1.40. Dynamite people working there - tell them I sent you. (Go on, risk it!) [JIB-77].

Hare Krishna

on Forbes just west of CMU in Oakland, Pittsburgh

On Sunday afternoon, if you want to eat some of the most delicious vegetarian food ever made, and don't mind the atmosphere, drop in at the Hare Krishna place. The food comes out around 5 p.m., and they don't seem to mind too much if you ignore their speeches. As one wag put it, "The food is great, but the service's awful." [JIB-77].

Nexus

Shady and Shakespeare, East Liberty
Adjunct to Arts-and-Craft Store of the same name. Proprietor Chuck Goodall found he had to feed his friends and hangers-on. Extraordinarily fine decor (wood, plants) and most comfortable ambience. Food about $4 for complete meal. Little choice, but excellent food. Very strange hours; call ahead [JIB-77].

The Cornucopia

328 Atwood St. in Oakland, Pittsburgh
(412) 682-7953

Hours: 8am-10pm

Excellent vegetarian food, although until recently it only rated a "good". Reasonably priced ($2 to $3 for an entree). Try the freshly-made grape juice (you can hear the grinder!) and for-real bread, as good as you make it yourself. Also carries the most expensive coffee in Pittsburgh (I expect). Most tasteful decor except Nexus [JIB-77].

Quebec: Hull
French

Cafe Mdme. Henry Burger

69 rue Laurier, Hull (near Ottawa)
(819) 777-5646

Hours: luncheon, dinner. AX, VS, CB, MC.

Excellent French cuisine and service the two times I have dined here (18 years apart). Well worth it at about $25 pp. [LES-59, 77]

Quebec: Montreal
Italian

Bianca & Franco Restaurant

7143 St. Dominique, Montreal
(514) 274-1122

They specialize in Italian food, and it was the best I ever had (which doesn't say much, but it was really good). Prices were reasonable [MJC-74].

Vermont
American

Hotel Coolidge

White River Junction, Vermont

A fine place. They feature continental cooking, with excellent service, and a chef who comes out and is genuinely interested in the satisfaction of the clientele [AK-5/77]

Washington: Seattle
American

Jake O'Shaghnessey's

100 Mercer (at Hansen's Bakery),
Seattle

(206) 285-1898

Hours: Mon-Sat 5-11pm, Sun 5-10pm. VS, MC, AX.

Unquestionably the best, most complete bar on the Pacific coast. The bartenders sing. The saloon beef is their specialty, the salmon delicately done, and the ice cream (fresh blackberry in season) is remarkable. The house wilted dressing is also recommended. THE place to go after the symphony, the ballet, or the opera [JSB-77].

The Other Place

319 Union, Seattle
(206) 623-7340

Hours: Mon-Sat 11am-midnight, closed Sunday. AX, VS, MC.

Roselini, the owner, raises his own pheasants and appreciates the virtues of small but exquisite servings. The wine list is superb and the waiters explain each individual entree, indicating the evenings strong points.

Ask for table 26 and for Mike or Jean-Paul as waiter [JSB-77].

Seafood

Ivar's

Pier 54, Seattle (near the ferry terminal)

(206) 624-6852

Pick a cold, windy day, step up to the outdoor counter, buy a quart of clam chowder and sip it sitting on the pier [BO-76].

Skipper's Galley

2223 SW California, Seattle
(206) 937-7445

Hours: most evenings after 7pm. VS, MC, AX.

Perhaps the 5 lb., handwritten, looseleaf menu says enough about this really delightful, albeit hectic, hole-in-the-wall near Alki. Each dinner includes fresh fruit, salad, coffee, fresh vegetables, the main meal, ice cream, and a complete baked alaska. Prices on the order of $10 for all this and the floor show put on by the staff as they cater to their customers make for an outstanding evening. I recommend the Stuffed Prawns with crab and lobster $9 or the Red Snapper Maltese $10 [JSB-77].

EUROPE

For serious dining in Europe, use the Michelin Guides, available at Keplers and other book stores. Here are a few good restaurants for use on "quickie" trips.

Belgium: Louvain French

Arturo's

Louvain, Belgium

One of the best in Belgium, which is the only country that rates with the best in France. Arturo is Italian but was trained and worked in France. He specialises in Lobster and seafood dishes: many of the fish are picked by you alive. Extraordinary sauces. Fairly expensive: $30-40 before wine [YAW-75].

France: Paris Chinese

Aux Delices de Chine

26 rue des Lombards, Paris
278.38.62

Peking Duck quite good, although they served the meat in a sauce with vegetables instead of dry with pancakes like the skin. I prefer the traditional way. If you ask for the Hot and Sour Soup "tres piquant" it's very good too [BH-3/77].

Deux Magots de Chine

13 rue Lagrange, Paris 5e
033.48.75

Hours: closed Tue.

This is Chinese restaurant I've been training. Their potstickers aren't quite up to Louis's standards, but they're not bad. If you ask for "les fourmis qui montent l'arbre" they will probably figure out you're a friend of mine. 30-40 francs [BH-76].

French

Au Roy Gourmet

4 pl. des Victoires, Paris 1er
508.10.16

Hours: closed Sat. evening, Sun., holidays, and August.

They have 40 franc prix fixe menu (as well as a large selection à la carte) which is pretty cheap for a Michelin place. Have the Sancerre Blanc, which is about the only wine I really like in France. Also have the creme caramel [BH-76].

Chez Michel

41 rue Servan, Paris 11e
805.64.33
Great [TOB-75].

Dodin-Bouffant

25 rue Fr'ed'eric Sauton, Paris 5e
The finest food in Paris - bar none.

Better than most 2 star restaurants and as good as many 3 star. Plan on 135 francs. For warmup, the feuillité d'huitres cannot be beat. After, the Confit de Grand-mère is the finest around [JAM-78].

Le Galant Verre

12 rue de Verneuil, Paris 7e
222.37.81

Hours: closed Sun. & August.

Michelin one-star. My favorite among the haute cuisine places I've been to. Lots of unusual recipes, e.g. scallops with cucumber in dill sauce. Posh, but not stuffy—the waiters are friendly. About 60-70 francs [BH-76]. Excellent French Cuisine with (can it be?) friendly waiters. Excellent decor, great sauces. Costs about 100 francs with wine ($22 or so) [JAM-76, ME-77].

La Coupole

102 Boulevard de Montparnasse, Paris
14e

Food is good but atmosphere (smoke-filled) is better. Good choucroute. 75 francs or so [JAM-78].

Petit Gavroche

15 rue St. Croix de la Bretonnerie,
Paris 4e

Best 15 franc restaurant in Paris. You eat whatever they are selling that day. Somebody's rectangular mother cooks and you better be able to speak French [JAM-78].

Pommier-Laprugne

5 rue Berger, Paris 1er
236.08.39

Hours: closed Sun.

This is the crêperie that makes hamburger crêpes. Real ketchup! Under 20 francs, including another crêpe for dessert— try the citron pressé [BH-76].

Restaurant Vagenende

142 boulevard Saint-Germain, Paris 6e
326.68.18

A cheap but remarkable restaurant still with its belle époque decor intact. Always busy, amazing prix fixe menus still available: three to four courses for about $3.50. You may have to stand and wait for a table for 10 mins or so, but there is a strolling Russian singer with an extraordinary voice while you wait. In the Latin Quarter [YAW-75].

Terminus Nord

23 rue de Dunkerque, Paris 10e
Assacienne style, fantastic shellfish. Try the moules marinière. For dessert, the claire fontaine can't be beat. 75 francs or so [JAM-78].

JewishBrasserie Goldenberg

Avenue Foch, Paris
So you gotta have your kreplach, et? [RAK-74].

SeafoodRougeon

59 rue Montparnasse, Paris 6e
548.98.66
Great mussels. Excellent old decor — lots of tile and mirrors [JAM-76].

Italy: FlorenceItalian*La Nuova Campana

via Borgo S. Lorenzo 24, Florence
211.326

Hours: closed Wed.

Excellent and inexpensive trattoria. Especially good for lunch. Try the tortellini [PAT-76].

Sabatini a Firenze

Florence Italy
This is a serious eating house credited with two stars in the Guide Michelin. It has an extensive winelist with over two hundred Italian wines. I thought it might have rated three stars if it had been in France. Remember to order desserts early, otherwise they run out [DCL-74].

Italy: RomeItalian*Cacciani

Frascati (about 10 miles South of Rome)
Excellent food & view, reasonable [DDG-70].

Spuntino

Grottaferrata (about 11 miles South of Rome)
Good food, inexpensive [DDG-70].

Italy: Venice Italian

Antico Martini

campo San Fantin, Venice
24121

Hours: Open 6 Apr.-15 Nov., closed lunchtime and Monday.

Best restaurant in Venice, two Michelin stars. You eat out of doors in a courtyard under a pergola. Expensive [YAW-75]. The only two-star restaurant in Venice and superb it is too. By far the best place to eat in the city, and quite reasonably priced considering what you get [AJT-75].

Caffe Quadri

piazza San Marco 120, Venice 22105

Hours: open April-October, closed Mondays.

Apart from being the place to sit and sip one's Campari of an evening, Quadri is also an excellent restaurant (it deserves better than the limited praise that Guide Michelin gives it). The decor is staggering, and the atmosphere delightful—for some reason it is never crowded, and one has plenty of room to enjoy the music drifting up from outside. Expensive ($15-20 pp.) [AJT-75].

Harry's Bar

calle Valaresso, Venice
36797

Hours: closed Mondays.

Ignore the name and the international drinker's downstairs. One Michelin star and many people eat nowhere else. The homemade green pasta is exceptional [YAW-75]. No, Yorick, two stars and three-star people! [AJT-75].

Locanda Cipriani

Torcello, Venice
730150

Hours: 16 March to 4 November. Torcello was the earliest inhabited island of the Venetian Republic, and has a fabulous and rather terrifying cathedral. The Locanda, which is owned by the prominent Venetian hotelier, Cipriani, is right next to the Basilica, amidst the vineyards. Torcello is reached by ferry from Venice — fondamenta Nuove. One Michelin star, deserves two, I think. About $10 apiece, with wine [AJT-75].

Taverna La Fenice

San Marco 1938, Venice
23856

Hours: *Closed Wed. and 28 Nov. to 20
Dec.*

Right next to the Fenice Theatre. Good menu and very reasonable prices (Lit.6000). Probably the best of the second-echelon places [AJT-75].

Just across Grosvenor Square from the Baroque air-conditioner which is the US Embassy. Not only the best Hotel in London, but also the finest "English" restaurant in Britain. A classic, at very up-to-date prices ($20 apiece, min.) [AJT-75]. Still fine cuisine, but very expensive - necessary to book well ahead. Watch out for items not priced on the menu [KNM-77].

Hours: noon-3pm 5:30pm-9:30pm.
Excellent. Also take away delicacies [KNM-76].

Lacy's

26 Whitfield Street, London W1
636-2323

This restaurant, though never in the Good Food Guide's top ten has been packed with eaters and winning prizes since the day it opened. Nice cool cellar decor, first class Spanish waiters. Eat their fish paté (looks impressive too), and the dishes with their special fennel sauce are all to be recommended. Excellent and unusual soups. Not cheap: about $25 a head without wine [YAW-75]. In the Good Food Guide, but extremely variable quality [KNM-77].

Rotisserie Normande

Portman Hotel; Portman Sq., London W1
486-5844

Hours: 12:30pm-3pm, 6:30pm-midnight.

Generally good. Sunday brunch superb — boggles the eyes and delights the tum [KNM-76].

The Causerie

The place to be seen at lunch. Expensive, crowded, but the food is decent and the droves of sheiks make entertaining watching! [AJT-75].

The Ritz Hotel

Piccadilly, London
493-8181

If you want your cucumber sandwiches and tea surrounded by real fin-de-siecle gilt (guilt?), this is the place to go [AJT-75]. Under new management and trying for a comeback — must wait and see [KNM-77].

Hamburger style meals. American style.
A bit plastic, but OK [IK-76].

Expensive. Best in a group. Make reservations as you arrive. Good Duck (but strong). Popular for dates [IK-76].

more frequented by students [IK-76].

Best value food in Oxford. Ample portions well cooked. Crowded and long wait weekends [IK-76].

decor. Not good value. OK for lunch
[IK-76].

Trout

Wolvercote, Oxford Expensive but good meals (duck and fish dishes best). Peacocks in garden.
Crowded tourist pub on hot day. Worth a visit [IK-76]. One of the great old pubs of Oxford, with foundations dating to the 12th Century. Famous for its picturesque riverside setting and its ornamental gardens with aggressive peacocks. Restaurant is so-so [DCL-65:77].

French

Bleu, Blanc, Rouge

The High, Oxford
A very decent, inexpensive bistro [AJT-75].

expensive. Need reservations. Always good food and wine. Worth one try [IK-76].

AFRICA

Malawi African

Zambezi Star Bar

Chitipa

Excellent food cooked over wood fire.
Tusker beer in bottles. Some English
